JAMAICA.

To his Grace Henry Duke of Portland, His Majesty's Captain General and Governour in Chief of this Island, and other the Territories thereon depending in America.

The humble Address of the Council.

May it please your Grace,

WE His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects the Council of His Majesty's Island of Jamaica, do return our humble Thanks for your Grace's Speech; and we think ourselves in Justice bound on this Occasion to declare our great Satisfaction in the wise Measures taken by your Grace to restore the publick Credit of this Island, and cannot (as we have been Eye Witnesses of the great Pains and indefatigable Application your Grace has used for our publick Benefit in that Particular, as well as in your whole Administration, since our happy Accession to the Government of this Colony) omit joyning in our unfeigned Thanks for your assiduous Care and constant Endeavour to serve us, not only here, but at Home.

And as amongst all the Steps taken by your Grace, none can possibly be more conducive to the Welfare of this Island, than the strict Regard had to Justice, which is so Conspicious throughout your Grace's Administration; so we beg Leave to Congratulate your Grace on the good Effect of it already remarkably to be distinguished over the whole Island; and from the Influence of your Grace's great Example, we have Reason to hope, that not only we ourselves, but our latest Posterity, shall reap the Benefit of your having set before us a Pattern so excellent and worthy of Imitation.

And we do assure your Grace of our most ready Assistance and unanimous Concurrence in every thing which may render your Grace's Designs for the publick Advantage effectual; and as we have an entire Dependance on your Grace's Honour, so our Inclinations oblige us, with the greatest Cheerfulness, to joyn in every thing for the Support of your Grace's Government, and which may tend to make your Life happy, quiet and easy, during your Stay amongst us.

Passed the Council the 8th of October, 1723. Jos. Maxwell, Cl. Concil.

His Grace's Answer.

Gentlemen,

THIS Address of yours gives me the greatest Satisfaction, and every Part of it deserves my hearty Thanks.

Your approving the Measures I have already taken for the Support of Credit, is not only an Encouragement to proceed in the same Methods, but also to try all possible Means that may be conducive towards the Good and the Service of this Island. I do assure you, that I shall never depart from the strict Regard that is due to Justice, but will give my utmost Attention in protecting as much as I can, every body in their just Rights and Possessions.

I don't question, but that (with your Concurrence in what may be for the publick Advantage, and your joyning in every thing that may be for the Support of the Government) I shall meet with that Ease and Quiet you wish me during my Administration, and that I shall see the End I chiefly propose to my self, which is to see this Country in a flourishing Condition.

London, January 13.

Last Night arrived a Mail from Holland.

Moscow, Dec. 14. 'The Houshold Officers belonging to the Czarina arrive here daily; the Czar also is expected here soon after the Christmas Holidays. New Arms have lately been distributed to six Regiments, and Orders given to the Smiths at Olonitz to get ready a sufficient Quantity for 10000 Men that are to be new raised; 80 Gunners and Bombardiers are marched towards the River Pruth; they carry with them great Guns of a new Invention, that can be fired faster than ordinary. We have not had News from Persia these three Weeks past; but an Officer who arrived here Yesterday from Derbent, brings Word from the Governour of that Place, that all things there are well, and that thro' proper Caution observed, the Troops of that Garrison have not suffer'd by Sickness the last Summer: That during the Months of August, September, and October last, above 1500 Persians have deserted from Miri-Weys's Army to the Russians, of whom, with some Tartars, we have formed a Flying Camp of 2000 Men; and that Miri-Weys still continues to exercise his Cruelty upon the Persians whom he suspects are affected to his Opposites.

Vienna, Jan. 5. The Person whom the Baron de Bentenrieder sent hither from Cambray, is dispatched back thither with Instructions to our Plenipotentiaries. Advices from Constantinople say, that M. Dierling, the Imperial Resident at the Ottoman Court, has received fresh Assurances from the Grand Vizier, that the warlike Preparations making by the Turks regard only the Russians; that the Grand Signior will on his Part continue to preserve the present Amity between the two Courts, and hopes that his Imperial Majesty will not listen to any Proposals that might draw him into an Alliance against the Ottoman Porte. 'Tis said, this Court has sent Orders to M. Dierling, to assure the Porte, that his Imperial Majesty will strictly adhere to the Treaties for preserving Peace between the two Empires. That Resident is also to engage the Porte to a due Observance of the Treaty of Commerce, especially the 19th Article granted in favour of the Persian Merchants, to the End they be not molested in their Traffick during the present Commotions in Persia, but permitted to travel safely through the Ottoman Dominions into Germany.
